

Using a Shared Mailbox in Outlook Online

User Guide

INTRODUCTION

During the coexistence phase, you are working with two environments in parallel. This means some services and resources may not yet be fully consolidated into one system.

One of the key differences during this period is how shared mailboxes are accessed.

Why you need to use Outlook Online

Shared mailboxes must be accessed via Outlook Online (<https://outlook.cloud.microsoft/mail>) during the coexistence phase.

This is required because:

- The shared mailbox may still be hosted in a different environment than your primary mailbox
- Full functionality and access permissions are reliably supported only in Outlook Online
- Outlook Online ensures a stable and consistent experience across both environments

Using Outlook Online avoids common issues such as:

- Shared mailbox not appearing in Outlook desktop
- Missing folders or emails
- Inability to send emails from the shared mailbox

This guide shows you, step by step, how to:

- Open a shared mailbox in Outlook Online
- Add it to your favourites
- All steps are supported with visual examples to help you complete the process easily.
